

'The negligent failure of a party to know or discover the facts, as to which both parties are under a mistake does not preclude rescission or reformation on account thereof. ' Restatement of the Law of Contracts, Vol. 2, § 508, p. 977. See also, Dickenson County Bank v. Royal Exchange Assurance of London, supra, 157 Va., at page 111.